

Women's Self-Defense Employee/Organization Workshop

About:

Our women's self-defense workshop is specifically designed for women (18+) to effectively learn how to handle assault, rape, and abduction. This workshop could also be co-ed. The class is taught by Grand Master Gene Perceval who is the first black belt in the world to be tested in Tae Kwon Do, when it became the new, central system.

Workshop details:

- How to handle/prevent rape, assault, and abduction. Don't feel helpless; learn attack and escape techniques.
- A short demonstration showing how to mentally and physically empower yourself through the power of focus.
- A short explanation of facts and demonstration of why awareness of your surroundings is very important.

Testimonials/track record:

- "I loved this class, very informative." - Linda B.
- "I'm a real estate agent and this class was helpful, especially for when I'm at open houses." Janice C.
- We have taught this workshop at many Nassau County & Suffolk County libraries, and at real estate agencies.

Cost:

The total cost of the workshop is just $350.00. Each class is one hour and a half (75 minutes), and up to 40 people. We travel to you, at your time and convenience.

Terms of service:

- You can pay in cash, credit, or check.
